THE undue and superstitious stress, which has been laid upon BAPTISING INFANTS, by some ill instructed Christians; has, doubtless, been the chief occasion of its being treated with such unreasonable opposition by others.

When we hear Austin, Fulgentius, Gregory—and many others of great name, amongst those called the holy fathers, with solemnity pronouncing—“That Infants can have no salvation, if they die without Baptism.”—“That we must hold for certain and undoubted that they are ignis eterni sempiterno supplicio puniendi to be tormented with the everlasting punishment of eternal fire.”—“And, interminabilia gehennæ sustinere supplicia, ubi diabolus, &c. That they suffer the endless torments of hell, where the devil with his angels

“are to burn for evermore.”—Again, “As the UNBAPTISED INFANT cannot go into the kingdom of heaven, you must acknowledge he will be in everlasting fire.”—Finally, “If Infants have not had the sacrament of salvation (i. e. Baptism) for their deliverance from original sin, they pass into perpetual torments.”—When we hear, I say, this ceremony of baptismal-water exalted into an affair of such infinite importance, the mind is naturally shocked: it rises with indignation against the monstrous absurdity and even impiety of such tenets; and (which is but too common to human nature) the transports of zeal hurry it into the opposite extreme: to depreciate and run down, a rite so unduely magnified: and, whilst pulling it from the high rank it had usurped in religion, to cast it quite out; and to allow it no use nor place in it at all.

The middle-way betwixt these two extremes, is that which is here chosen. It can with no reason be imagined, that a God of infinite mercy, who hateth nothing that he hath made, will permit the having, or the wanting, the ceremony of baptismal-water, to determine finally and irrevocably the everlasting state of a dying Infant: or, that for the neglect of this ceremonial washing, (which yet the Infant could in no wise help) it shall be doomed to everlasting torments amongst devils and apostate spirits. This be far from the almighty JUDGE!

The

The Baptism that saves (a) (or, that at all profits any, whether Infant or adult) is not the external washing, but the answer of a good conscience; or the pious and devout sentiments with which that ceremony is performed. In persons adult; the religious and sincere affections with which they consecrate themselves to God: and in Infants; the unfeigned piety; the gratitude and the faith, with which their parents devote them to him. The meer ceremony of applying water is comparatively of little moment.

But, that the Baptism of Infants is a rite ordained of God, and a rite of great advantage and use in Religion, the following treatise, it is hoped, will show. In which it is considered, rather as a standing token, than as a proper instrument or mean, of God's mercy and grace to us; a perpetual memorial instituted in the church, signifying to believers God's readiness to pour down his spirit upon them, and his  blessing upon their offspring; not properly a canal (as some affect to talk) by which these are conveyed to us.

The argument from antiquity or apostolic tradition, has not, perhaps, been often presented to the public, in so contracted and clear a light as its importance deserves. It is, principally for the sake of this; and to represent the moral purposes of Infant-Baptism, that the ensuing tract appears.

If

(a) 1 Pet. iii. 21.

If sentiments, on the future state of dying Infants, may here be thought by some, too freely expressed; they may,—it is hoped, be admitted as conjectures at least, upon an interesting subject; upon which however the Baptism of Infants has no essential dependance, that resting securely upon other considerations, whatever force be allowed to these.

The author delights not in controversy, nor intends to engage in any, on the subject of these papers; having seldom seen good arising from altercations of this kind. But the light in which the argument is here set having been approved by several, to whose judgment he owes great deference, it is here presented to publick view. As far as it speaks truth, may the GOD of truth succeed it! To his favour it is commended: and to the attentive perusal of the candid and sincere.

Infant Baptism, in point of Antiquity;

INTRODUCTION.

A general view of the several dispensations of religion with respect to INFANTS.

FROM the exactest observations, it appears, that of those who are born into the world, scarce a third part attain to the age even of one year. Thousands of INFANTS every day languish under grievous distempers; are tortured, convulsed, and in piteous agonies give up the ghost.—This, at first, seems a very strange dispensation; hardly reconcileable with the wisdom and justice, much less with the goodness and mercy of GOD. It is scarce possible not to ask—how comes it to pass, that millions of harmless babes, in whose frame is displayed such infinite skill; who are formed with capacities of such exalted attainments, both intellectual and moral; with capacities of an happiness ever growing, and everlasting, in the knowledge, imitation, and enjoyment ment of God.—How comes it to pass, that they only thus glance upon the coasts of life; are just brought into the world with exquisite pains, moan away a few weeks of misery and disease upon it, and then in terrible convulsions, fall victims to death! What light has God cast upon this dark scene of his providence? Has he left it quite covered with impenetrable clouds? And, where the interest and comfort of so great a part of his intelligent creation are deeply concerned, has he given no intimations which may be a solid ground of hope? It can never be supposed.

There are four dispensations, under which RELIGION has principally subsisted since the fall, viz. the dispensation of the Light of Nature, the Abrahamic, the Mosaic, and the Christian. Now, each of these casts some light upon this awful scene, and administers some hope as to suffering and dying Infants. Let it then be enquired

FIRST. What judgment doth REASON, or the Light of Nature, pass upon their case? There are but two ways, in which REASON can account for this procedure of providence, viz. by supposing these suffering Infants to have existed in some former state; or that they will exist in some future.

Some have imagined, that they have existed and misbehaved in a former state of being; and that their sufferings in the present, are a correction or punishment for evils done there. This the Platonic philosophy taught: and it seems to have been an opinion not uncommon amongst the Jews, in the days of our Saviour. Concerning the man that was born blind, the disciples, therefore, ask him—master who did sin; this man, or his parents; that he was born blind (a): But this præexistence of Infants, being a matter of absolute uncertainty; unsupported by any solid or probable grounds; REASON derives rives its principal satisfaction, from the supposition of their existence in a state after death. There, the Almighty RECTOR can give them pleasures and entertainments abundantly to counterbalance the sufferings of their present state.

This is what REASON, I say, surmises and hopes; but cannot certainly conclude. It wants some REVELATION, some promise from GOD, to give stability and vigor to these wavering hopes. And under all the conflicts and pains which he sees his dying child suffer, the pious parent has nothing, from the Light of Nature, whereon to trust, but the uncovenanted goodness and mercy of GOD. Now, were it not, in these circumstances, a most desirable thing, that GOD would give us some revelation or promise concerning our INFANTS? Some covenant to assure us, that they are the objects of his favour and peculiar regard; and that as they suffer and die in this world, so they shall be raised again to life and happiness in the other? Was not, I ask, some such covenant, revelation, or promise, concerning our INFANTS, what nature greatly wanted, wished for and desired; and, if GOD should be pleased to grant it, ought it not to be highly valued, and most thankfully received (b)? Behold!

SE-

(b) There is a very rational and just sense, in which GOD may be said to establish his covenant with INFANTS. For the scripture expressly saith, Gen. ix. 9, 10, 12, 13. that he established his covenant, even, with the cattle and the fowl; solemnly engaging no more to drown them by a flood. Is there any thing strange, then, or unreasonable, in GOD's establishing his covenant with Infants; solemnly engaging to pour his spirit and blessing on them? Or, that the evils they suffer in consequence of Adam's sin, shall be removed and amply recompensed through the righteousness of Christ? Most surely not at all.—

But, if there is a rational and just sense, in which GOD may establish his covenant with INFANTS; there is the highest reason to presume that he actually HAS done it, and that they are taken SECONDLY. This we see done, in the ABRAHAMIC dispensation. For as GOD'S covenant-transactions with Abraham were the foundation, or charter of the church, which, in after ages, he intended to gather, and to erect amongst men: so he, here, gives pious parents an express promise and revelation concerning their INFANTS. He promises to be A GOD to Abraham, and to his seed; and takes his INFANTS into covenant, together with himself; commanding the TOKEN of the covenant to be solemnly affixed to them, as a standing testimony or sign that JEHOVAH was their GOD. See Gen. xvii. 7, 8, 10, 11, 12, 14. GOD said, I will establish my covenant between me, and thee (Abraham) and thy seed after thee, in their generations; to be a GOD to thee, and to thy seed after thee—and I will be THEIR GOD. This is my covenant which ye shall keep—every man-child among you, that is eight days old, shall be circumcised. The uncircumcised man-child shall be cut off from his people. Circumcision then, by GOD'S express command, was affixed to Abraham's INFANTS, and to the INFANTS of all such as believed in the GOD of Abraham, as a TOKEN of his covenant; which covenant was, that JEHOVAH would be their GOD.

Now, when the ALMIGHTY covenants and promises to be THE GOD of these Infants, what does it imply? Undoubtedly something GREAT, viz. that he will be, in a peculiar manner, their guardian and taken into his covenant: for if he graciously condescended to establish his covenant with the brute creation, promising no more to deluge them; and appointed a standing token or memorial of this covenant, viz. the bow in the clouds; much more, surely, may we hope, that he hath established his covenant also with INFANTS, promising to deliver them from the fatal consequences of the fall; and that he has appointed a standing token or sign of this covenant, to perpetuate its knowledge and remembrance in the church.

and benefactor; that he will take them under the especial patronage and care of his providence, influences of his spirit, and ministrations of his angels; and that if they died in their Infant-state, before any transgression had put them out of the covenant, they should certainly be raised to an happinefs after death.—That this was the undoubted import or meaning of this promise, the scripture hath clearly taught us.—Now that the dead are raised, Moses shewed at the bush, when he calleth the Lord, the GOD of Abraham and THE GOD of Isaac (c) &c. And again, GOD is not ashamed to be called THEIR GOD; for he hath prepared for them a city (d), i. e. an happinefs in some future state. And again, I will be HIS GOD (e), is explained by, he shall be my SON: but, whoever is a son of GOD, and dies in that relation, will infallibly be declared or manifested to be such by a glorious resurrection. See Rom. viii. 19. Luke xx. 36.

That this token of the Abrahamic covenant, assured a resurrection to future happinefs to an Infant dying under it, may be further proved thus—suppose one of Abraham's circumcised Infants lay languishing under tormenting pains, and gave up the ghost. An infidel stands by, and seeing the MARK in its flesh, scoffingly asks—what that MARK means? He is told, it is a TOKEN of the covenant into which JEHOVAH took the child; and by which he solemnly declared, that he received it as his own, and engaged to be its GOD. But what gets the child, the Infidel demands, by having JEHOVAH for its GOD? Is he not ashamed to be called

(c) Luke xx. 37. A state of death, is a state of punishment; God's calling himself then, the GOD of Abraham, when he lay in a state of death, was a clear proof that he would not leave him always to continue in it.

(d) Heb. xi. 16.

(e) Rev. xxi. 7.

THE GOD of that emaciated, tortured, breathless Infant? No, it is replied, because he will raise it from the dead, and give it happiness in a future state. Else, indeed, he would be ashamed to be called THE GOD of such a babe. But we proceed to consider THIRDLY. The MOSAIC dispensation; and the farther strength which this gives to these rational hopes. Now, here, we see another COVENANT, besides that of circumcision, into which INFANTS were taken. Deut. xxix. 10, 11, 12. Ye stand this day, all of you, before the Lord YOUR GOD; your captains, your elders, your LITTLE-ONES, your wives, that thou shouldst ENTER INTO COVENANT with the Lord thy GOD: that he may establish thee to day for A PEOPLE unto himself; and that he may be unto thee A GOD, as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, &c — So Ezek. xvi. 20, 21. Moreover, thou hast taken thy sons, and thy daughters, which thou hast BORN UNTO ME; and these hast thou sacrificed unto the Idols: thou hast slain MY CHILDREN (e). Thus our LORD himself, when an Infant, was brought into the Temple, as were all the first-born Infant-Males, and there solemnly devoted, as HOLY, to GOD. Luke ii. 22, 23. — Hence then, it is most evident, that the Jewish INFANTS, in consequence of their dedication to GOD, and admission into his covenant, were in a peculiar manner HIS; his property, and his children, in a sense in which the Infants of the idolatrous and uncircumcised Gentiles were not. But of these, multitudes, no doubt, died in their Infant state. What now might be concluded concerning the case of such? Undoubtedly this: That, as they died in covenant with GOD, (by which covenant he had had engaged to take them for a people to himself, to acknowledge them as his children, and to be to them a-GOD) and as no advantage nor happiness was given them in this world, at all answerable to these characters; but they miserably languished, like all other Infants, and at last died under the primitive condemnation or judgment; it therefore certainly remained, that they will be raised again and exist in some after state; where an happiness will be given them suitable to these great promises, and where they will be treated as the people and the children of GOD. For else, GOD would plainly seem to have broken his covenant; and the solemn and grand promise of being a GOD to such an Infant, and of taking it for HIS child, proves a very mean and insignificant thing.

These are the hopes which Reason surmises, and which the several dispensations both of Abraham, and of Moses, strongly confirm. We proceed to observe FOURTHLY. How they are farther brightned by the dispensation of JESUS CHRIST. As this was to be the last, and the most perfect display of GOD's mercy to fallen men; in which the riches of his abounding grace were to be most fully revealed; it can never be imagined to come short, in any points of the two former dispensations. Did GOD take the Infants of believers into covenant with himself, under Abraham and Moses; and command, that as a standing token of it, the seal of the covenant should be solemnly affixed to them; but, under JESUS his SON, has he made no such manifestation of his merciful regard to them; admitted them visibly into no covenant; nor appointed any token that he receives them as his children, and that he will be to them a GOD? How utterly unlikely, as well as uncomfortable able is the thought. Thanks to his mercy! We can with good assurance say, that is not the case.—

No. But when Infants were once brought to our SAVIOUR, to be made partakers of the blessings of his kingdom; he openly and severely rebuked his Disciples, and was highly displeased with them, for endeavouring to hinder it. He kindly took them into his arms; laid his hands upon them; and blessed them; and COMMANDED that LITTLE CHILDREN should be suffered to come, i. e. be brought, to him, and NOT BE FORBIDDEN; declaring that of such is the kingdom of GOD (f), i. e. that these, also, have a place in the kingdom of the Messiah, which was now to be set up; and a right to the blessings which himself, the promised KING, was come to bestow.

At another time, he took A LITTLE CHILD into his arms, and shewing it to his Disciples, says, whosoever shall receive one such little Child, this Child, in my name, receiveth me (g). Now the receiving a Child in CHRIST'S NAME must mean the considering, or treating, it as standing in some peculiar relation to CHRIST; as τὸ κρῖσθαι ὡς ἀρτὸν τοῦ Χριστοῦ belonging to Christ; as being a subject of his kingdom, or a part of his flock. That this is what our LORD means by, receiving in HIS NAME, himself has expressly shewn by thus explaining it in this same discourse, because ye belong to Christ (h): whoso shall give you a cup of water to drink, IN MY NAME, because YE BELONG TO CHRIST, verily I say unto you, &c. Hence, then it is most evident, that INFANTS may be, yea are to be, received in CHRIST'S NAME; and that by this we are to understand, receiving them as BELONGING or standing in some peculiar relation, to CHRIST; but in this peculiar relation to CHRIST an INFANT can no otherwise stand than by being solemnly devoted to him, and admitted into his kingdom and church.

And, that INFANTS were to be admitted into the kingdom of the MESSIAH, or into that incorporated society of which he is the head, is quite rational to presume: for as they stood in absolute need of the redemption or grace which MESSIAH, the king, came to bestow on mankind; and as provision was made by the covenant of GOD for their actual receiving it; so there was the strongest reason to expect, that they would be solemnly acknowledged, and declared to be a part of that society or church which should be thus blessed and saved by him. In other words, that as they were condemned through the FIRST ADAM and treated as sinners; so they should be justified through the SECOND ADAM and treated as righteous. But, if they were to be treated as righteous, and to be solemnly declared a part of that society, or church, whom CHRIST came to save; they were, then, to be baptized; for Baptism was the ceremony in which all, who by GOD'S covenant had a right to salvation, were to be admitted into the church, and solemnly declared to be of the number of the saved.

That, in the eye of the christian law, INFANTS are actually under a sentence of condemnation and considered as sinners, by being made to suffer death the punishment and effect of sin, cannot be denied. By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin, and so death passed upon ALL, for that (est enim, ad quod, as far as which) or (per quem through whom) ALL are treated as if they had sinned (i). Rom. v. 12.

By

(i) Iniquity and sin are very frequently used in scripture, where not any real guilt or moral turpitude is meant, but only the

By one man's offence judgment came upon ALL men to condemnation. ver. 18. By one man's offence many were made sinners. ver. 19. In Adam ALL die, 1 Cor. xv. 22. Though INFANTS are incapable of any moral or proper guilt, yet as in the wise scheme of God's providence they are at present subjected to innumerable pains, diseases, and death, the penal effects of SIN, through the disobedience of Adam; they are, agreeably to the style of scripture, said to have sinned, and to be made, i. e. treated as, sinners.

Now, the same discourse of the Apostle, which represents them as condemned and suffering through ADAM; represents them also as justified and saved by JESUS CHRIST. For, as by the offence of one (ADAM) judgment came upon ALL men to condemnation; even so by the righteousness of one (CHRIST) the free gift came upon all men to justification of life: for as by the disobedience of one, many were made sinners; so by the obedience of one, shall many be made righteous (k). As much as to say, the salutary effects of the second Adam's virtue, are as EXTENSIVE as the penal ones of the first Adam's sin: or, as the malignity of that first offence reached even to INFANTS, subjecting them to death; so the benefit of CHRIST's obedience reaches also to Infants, justifying, absolving, and restoring them to life. It procures for and gives to them that SPIRIT of life, which releases the effects or the punishment of sin. See Gen. xix. 15. 1 Sam. xxviii. 10. 2 Kin. vii. 9. Isa. liiii. 6, 11, 12. 1 Pet. ii. 24. 2 Cor. v. 21. Heb. ix. 28. And this suggests an ease, and, doubtless, the true sense of that much controverted text, Psal. li. 5. I was shapen in INIQUITY, and in SIN did my mother conceive me: alluding to the bitter SORROWS in which, in consequence of the first SIN, (Gen. iii. 16.) the woman is sentenced to conceive and to bring forth.
and

(k) Rom. v. 18, 19.

and sets them free from the law of sin and death. Now of GOD's giving, and of men's receiving this life-giving SPIRIT, the baptismal water is the appointed token, or emblem, in the church.

This the scripture plainly intimates, by saying Tit. iii. 5. We are SAVED, by the washing of regeneration (i. e. Baptism, the sign) and by the renewing of the HOLY GHOST (the thing signified in that ceremonial washing) which he hath shed (ἐξέχευ POURED OUT) upon us abundantly, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

From this discourse of the Apostle (Rom. v.) the following deductions evidently flow. 1. That in the construction of the Christian Law, Infants are, most certainly, in a state of condemnation, and are treated as sinners. 2. That they are, therefore, capable of justification or remission, and stand in absolute need of it; in as much as, without it, they must eternally lie under the sentence of death. 3. As they are capable of this grace, and stand in absolute need of it; express provision is made, in the constitution of the GOSPEL-COVENANT, for their being justified and saved. But 4. All who by the Gospel-Covenant are entitled to justification, salvation, and life, are entitled also to Baptism; for Baptism is a rite, instituted by GOD, to signify or betoken that those, who are entitled to the blessings of his covenant, shall certainly receive them.

The Baptism of Infants, viewed in this light, is a very rational institution. The great PARENT of mankind having, in the wisdom of his providence, subjected so vast a part of the race to miseries and pains through no default of their own; it was quite reasonable to believe, that his mercy would appoint them some testimony of his favour, some monument or pledge that he had not abandoned this noble part of his creation to the ruin and death under which they were fallen. That, as they continually suffered the visible tokens of his displeasure in a variety of tormenting agonies; so, he would graciously ordain them also some visible token of his good-will, some perpetual and standing sign, of his still accounting them HIS children, and that they were yet the objects of his tender and parental regard. It was perfectly just, I say, and reasonable to imagine, that the great PARENT of these tortured and suffering innocents, whenever he erected a church upon earth, would appoint some such standing token of his mercy and favour to them. Now this, we see, he did under the two former dispensations, both of Abraham and of Moses: and great consolation it, doubtless, gave their pious parents under these dispensations, when they saw them languishing in extreme pains and giving up the ghost, to reflect upon the solemn token by which the ALMIGHTY had accepted them as his children, and had promised to be their God. But, can it ever be conceived, that the dispensation of JESUS CHRIST is defective in this important point! That it, herein, comes behind, and is inferior to both the former! That it has no such standing token of God's mercy to condemned Infants, nor any rite by which he visibly admits them now, as he formerly did, into his family or church!—Is he a God in covenant to the Abrahamic, and to the Jewish Infants ONLY, and not to CHRISTIAN Infants also? With great assurance we can say, to Christian Infants also (1).

And

(1) We are not to imagine, that all Infants dying such, but none of believers, or all which die unbaptized, will be annihilated or never rise again; but the superior advantage to believers Infants, above others, is, 1. That with respect to these, God has been pleased to lay himself under a more particular covenant or promise of a resurrection to a future happiness; whereas the other

And as it thus evidently appears, that, in the original construction and frame of his church, provision was made that the Infants of GOD's people should be admitted into his covenant. So, it may be added—that such a solemn dedication, as is made in Baptism, of an Infant by its parents to GOD the SUPREAM PARENT, seems to be a most natural and rational service: a service which a pious mind can scarce possibly forbear. Having received so great a gift and trust from the almighty sovereign, how natural and proper is it, that soon upon its birth, and while a sense of the obligation is yet warm upon the heart, he should make some solemn acknowledgment that he has received it from GOD; should openly devote it to him, and lay himself under a sacred vow to educate it religiously, and bring it up in his fear! Is not this, evidently, a becoming other are left more to his uncovenanted mercy. And 2. Their circumstances in a future state may agreeably to all the moral perfections of GOD, be supposed more happy and advantageous than theirs who were never thus solemnly devoted to him. It being an evident and important part of the scheme of GOD's moral government, that great blessings and favours shall be conferred upon some, in consequence and as a reward of the earnest and sincere prayers and piety of others.

All rational creatures, there is reason to believe, are, some where or other, placed in a state of discipline or probation; before they pass into a state of fixed and unalterable bliss. Heaven itself was, if it be not at present, a state of trial to Angels. Infants dying such, therefore, there is ground to presume, pass into such a state. Now, as in our present state of trial, some are placed in circumstances far more advantageous and favourable than others: so, probably, is it in the state to which dying Infants pass. Abraham's posterity were put in circumstances more favourable, for attaining virtue and happiness, than other nations of the earth, on account of their father's piety. The same may be justly hoped as to the dying Infants of good men; who, according to GOD's command, have been solemnly devoted to him, whom he hath acknowledged for his children, and to whom he hath, by a sacred covenant, promised to be a GOD.

ing temper and action, upon receiving such a trust? Would it not naturally have a good influence on the conduct of the parent, with regard to his child; disposing him either to resign it more chearfully, if taken from him by death; or to train it up more religiously if its life be continued? And might it not be hoped, that God would graciously accept and reward the piety of such a parent, with peculiar blessings on such a child?

But, from this general view of the several dispensations of religion with respect to Infants, from which their right to Baptism may be strongly presumed.—We proceed farther to establish it by clear and direct proofs.

A R G U M E N T I.

The first argument shall be presented under the following propositions.

I.  T is an incontestible fact, that the INFANTS of believers, were, in former dispensations or ages of the church, taken together with their parents into covenant with God; and had, by his express command, a sacrament or rite given them, as a token that JEHOVAH was their GOD; and that in consequence hereof; HE counted them for HIS children, and as standing in a peculiar relation to himself. Gen. xvii. 7, 10, 11, 12. Deut. xxix. 10, 11, 12. Ezek. xvi. 20, 21. See these scriptures already cited, pag. 4, 6.

II. When these INFANTS of believers were thus taken into COVENANT, it was certainly, a great PRIVILEGE, a favour or grant most thankfully to be received.

For, by this token, the MOST HIGH obliged himself and covenanted to be THE GOD of that Infant. And what that implies, see before explained, pag. 4, 5. Now

III. If this great PRIVILEGE was once granted by GOD to his church, it is a privilege STILL subsisting, sisting, and is now in actual and full force, if it has not been revoked. But

IV. This privilege or grant has NEVER been REVOKED. No such revocation, nor any shadow of it, appears in the whole book of GOD. Therefore

V. The INFANTS of believers having STILL a right to their antient UNREPEALED privilege, of being admitted with their parents into covenant with GOD, and of having its token applied to them; it hence necessarily follows, that they have right to Christian Baptism; for Baptism is now the ONLY appointed token or ceremony of admission.

These propositions, it is humbly apprehended, amount to a demonstration of the point in debate. Which of them can be denied? Will any man say.

1. That the Infant of believers, in the former ages of the church, were not taken, with their parents into covenant with GOD; had not, by his express command, a sacrament or rite given them in token that JEHOVAH was their GOD; and that, in consequence of this, they were not considered and treated as being in a peculiar manner HIS? This no man will affirm. Will it then be said, 2. That this, though it was granted to the Infants of good men of old, was really no privilege nor favour to them? Neither durst any man assert this. Can it be urged then, 3. That this privilege, though granted antiently to the church, and enjoyed by it many ages, does not, now, continue to it; nor ought, now, to be enjoyed by it; though it be at the same time acknowledged not to have been repealed? Absurd to imagine! Will it be said then, 4. That this antient privilege or grant has, indeed, been repealed? Let the REPEAL be shewn, and the the point shall be given up. There appears no such REPEAL, nor any thing like it, in the whole sacred scriptures: on the contrary, there appear many things, as will presently be seen, abundantly to confirm this invaluable privilege; and to strengthen and enlarge it. And, indeed, it were the height of absurdity to imagine, that JESUS CHRIST came to cut short the privileges of the church, in any single point; and to cast the children of believers out of GOD'S covenant, who before were taken into it.—

It being impossible to deny, then, that the Infants of believers have STILL a right to their ancient UNREPEALED privilege, of being admitted with their parents into GOD'S covenant, and of having its token applied to them.—The consequence is inevitable.—That they have then a right to Baptism, the appointed token of GOD'S covenant, and the only initiatory rite by which persons are now admitted into it.

The point is farther proved thus.

A R G U M E N T II.

From the ABRAHAMIC COVENANT.

THE covenant which GOD made with Abraham, and with HIS SEED, Gen. xvii. (into which his Infants were taken, together with himself, by the rite of circumcision.) That covenant, I say, is the very SAME which WE are now under, even the christian or gospel covenant; and ABRAHAM, in that transaction, acted and is considered under the character of OUR FATHER, the Father of us believing Gentiles: the original grants, therefore, and privileges of that covenant must necessarily belong to us, believing Gentiles, HIS SEED.—Now it was an indisputable grant or privilege of that covenant, that INFANTS should be received, together with their parents, into it; and solemnly pass under its sacrament or seal. This grant, therefore, or privilege, in behalf of our INFANTS, we, believing Gentiles, may now confidently claim.

That WE, believing Gentiles, are the SEED really included and intended in that covenant; and that Abraham, in that transaction, was considered as OUR FATHER—is a point actually, and most clearly, determined by St. Paul. For in two several epistles (Rom. iv. and Galat. iii.) where he is explaining the nature and extent of the christian or gospel covenant, he quotes THIS covenant made with Abraham (Gen. xvii.) refers to it, and reasons from it, and fetches arguments thence to prove, that BELIEVERS from among the Gentiles are, under the christian dispensation, to be fellow-heirs with the Jews, and are the REAL SEED of Abraham intended in that covenant. See Rom. iv. 9.—particularly ver. 16, 17. Therefore IT (i. e. the blessedness, or justification, of the Abrahamic covenant) is of FAITH, that it might be by grace; to the end THE PROMISE might be sure to ALL THE SEED; not to that only which is of THE LAW, but to that also which is of the FAITH of Abraham, who is the FATHER OF US ALL, (i. e. of believing Gentiles as well as Jews,) as it is written (Gen. xvii. 5.) I have made thee a FATHER of MANY NATIONS.

Expressly to the same purpose, the Apostle also assures us, Galat. iii. 7. That they who ARE OF FAITH (Believers) the same are THE CHILDREN of Abraham. And ver. 29. If ye are CHRIST'S (i. e. Believers) then are ye ABRAHAM'S SEED, and heirs according to the promise. And again ver 16, 17.

that to Abraham, and to HIS SEED, were the promises made; (which SEED he proves to be all true believers, taken in a collective sense as the body of Christ; and adds); now this I say, that the covenant which was confirmed before of GOD in CHRIST; (εις χριστου respecting Christ, or true believers) the LAW, which was 430 years after CANNOT DISANNUL, that it should make the PROMISE of NO EFFECT.—Now that the promises, or covenant, here referred to, which the Apostle affirms to be STILL in force, and NOT to be disannulled, must be, and is this covenant, (Gen. xvii.) into which INFANTS were taken by a visible rite, is most evident; because, this is the ONLY covenant, in which GOD ever made and confirmed promises to Abraham and to his seed.

Seeing, then, it is incontestable—that we believing Gentiles, are THE SEED intended in that covenant; it follows, that we have an undoubted right to ALL its privileges and grants; consequently, to the admission of our INFANTS into it; and consequently, to their passing under its token or sign.

This token or sign was originally circumcision: but when GOD sent his son into the world further to explain and confirm this covenant, and to publish it to all nations, he was pleased to alter its token, or initiating rite, from circumcision to Baptism: partly, perhaps, as circumcision was a painful and bloody rite, and obnoxious to great reproach and contempt amongst the Gentiles; but, principally, because both sexes were now to be alike visibly received into the covenant; and under this new dispensation of it, there was to be neither male nor female. Galat. iii. 28. (m).

Thus

(m) That circumcision is abolished, is acknowledged by all; but the Abrahamic covenant still subsisting, and being no other than

Thus then stands the argument, in short—if we are CHRIST'S (Believers) then are we Abraham's SEED, (Gal. iii. 29.) but, if we are Abraham's SEED, we have then a right to ALL the grants and privileges of that covenant which GOD made with Abraham, and with HIS SEED: but the ADMISION of his INFANTS, together with himself, was an indisputable grant or privilege of that covenant: therefore, as it was given to Abraham OUR FATHER, it must necessarily remain and endure to US HIS SEED (n).

A R G U M E N T    I I I .

From the COMMISSION.

A Third argument for admitting Infants to Baptism, may be drawn—from the sense in which the APOSTLES, when sent forth to baptise, would naturally and even necessarily understand their commission. GO TEACH (μαθητεύσατε disciple or profelyte) than the gospel covenant, and of this gospel covenant it being acknowledged that Baptism is now the appointed token or sign; it hence evidently follows, that Baptism now succeeds in the room of circumcision. Accordingly it is called the christian circumcision, or circumcision of Christ. Col. ii. 11, 12.

(n) Infants are not baptised as being THEMSELVES the Seed of Abraham; but as being the Children, or Property, of those who are the Seed of Abraham. For as Abraham's Faith brought not himself only, but his Infants together with him, into the Covenant of God: So the Faith of Abraham's Seed (Believers) brings not themselves only, but their Infants together with them, into the SAME Covenant: else the Covenant would not be established in the same manner to his Seed, as it was to Abraham himself; which yet is plainly promised, Gen. xvii. 7, 10, 11.

lyte) ALL NATIONS BAPTIZING THEM (o). It is now enquired, in what sense they would understand this commission? Whether, as authorizing them to baptise only the believing adult: or, to give this token of GOD's covenant also to the INFANTS of such believers? The commission is delivered in such general terms as not certainly to determine this. If any part of it can be said to exclude Infants, it must be the word teach (p). But suppose it had been said—go teach, profelyte, all nations CIRCUMCISING them.—Would not the Apostles, without any farther warrant, have naturally and justly thought, that upon profelyting the Gentile parent and circumcising him, his INFANTS also were to be circumcised? Or, if a divine command had been given to the twelve patriarchs of old, to go into Egypt, Arabia, &c. and TEACH them the GOD of Abraham, circumcising them.—Would they not, must they not, have understood it as authorizing them to perform this ceremony, not upon the parent only, but also upon the INFANTS of such as believed in the GOD of Abraham? Without all question they would.

Hence then it is plain, that the word, teach, (disciple or profelyte) concludes nothing, certainly, against INFANTS being admitted, with their believing parents, into GOD's covenant by Baptism. But, if the word, teach, does not necessarily EXCLUDE Infants; let us see, whether there are not such circumstances attending this commission, as would naturally and even necessarily lead the Apostles

(o) Mat. xxviii. 19.

(p) The word rendered teach (μαθητευσαίτε) in the 19th verse, is not the same with that in the next verse, teaching them to observe all things—(διδασκοντες) but is of a more large and comprehensive signification, and is better rendered to profelyte or disciple.

bles to apprehend INFANTS to be actually INCLUDED therein.

Now, here let it be considered—who the persons were, to whom the commission was given? They were JEWS; men, who had been educated in the knowledge of that covenant, which GOD had made with Abraham and their fathers; and who knew it to be STILL in force.—Men, who had seen, that in all covenant-transactions, betwixt GOD and his church, the INFANTS of believers had always been admitted, together with their parents, and passed under the same initiating rite.—Men, who apprehended this their admission to be a great privilege or favour to them; and knew, or were to be soon informed, that the Gentiles (all nations) were now to be taken into a joint-participation of ALL the privileges of the Jewish church; to be grafted into the same olive-tree; and to be joint-heirs with them of ALL their religious immunities or grants.—They, moreover, knew it to be the constant, immemorial practice of the church, that when any Gentile was taught (profelyted to the worship of the GOD of Israel) himself was baptised, and all his Infants were baptised with him, and these Infants were called profelytes. Further, they were men extremely jealous and tenacious of their antient rites.—They had seen also, under their law, by GOD'S express command, children of a month old and upwards enrolled in the temple register; and entered, as ministers to AARON, as doing the service of the tabernacle, and as keeping the charge of the sanctuary (p).—They had been, often, witnesses to the kind regard their master had shewn to little children; and had been once severely rebuked by him for hindering their being

(p) Numb. iii. 6, 7, 8, 28. And claimed by GOD as HIS SERVANTS. Levit. xxv. 41, 42.

being brought to receive his benediction ; and saw him laying his hands on them, and solemnly declaring them to be subjects of his kingdom.—Further, they knew that Baptism was appointed as a token from GOD of the remission of sin, or of justification ; and that Infants were in the eye of the christian law treated as sinners, and under a sentence of condemnation.—Finally: they knew that CHRIST came, not to lessen or abridge the privileges of GOD's church (of which this admission of Infants was confessedly one) but to heighten and to enlarge them.—Let these several circumstances be impartially weighed, and then let any man say—whether, as the commission will admit of a favourable and a large sense, so as to include Infants, the apostles would not naturally, and even necessarily, suppose them comprehended therein? And whether, there was not a most strong, and most manifest necessity, if CHRIST intended that Infants should not be included in it, that he should have expressly excepted them?

The commission viewed in this, which is its proper and true light, is so far from concluding any thing against the baptizing Infants, that it strongly favours and supports it. For since, it is delivered in such general terms as to be capable of admitting Infants; and since, from the above circumstances, the apostles would naturally and unavoidably understand it as intending their admission; it follows, that our LORD's silence, as to these, is a strong and most manifest presumption in their favour; and that his not excluding, or excepting, them from the christian covenant, is, in all equitable construction, a permission or order that they should be admitted into it.

A R G U M E N T IV.

Shall be drawn, from the EVIDENT AND CLEAR CONSEQUENCES of other passages of SCRIPTURE.

I. IN Rom. xi. the Apostle, discoursing of the exclusion of a chief part of the JEWS from the visible church of GOD, and the reception of the Gentiles in their stead; speaks of it under this figure, ver. 17. And if some of the branches (the Jews) be broken off, and thou (a Gentile) being a wild olive-tree, wer't grafted in amongst them, and WITH THEM partakest of the root and fatness of the olive tree; boast not, &c. Here let it be noted. 1. The olive-tree, is the ABRAHAMIC covenant or church; from which, the unbelieving Jews are cast out; and into which, the believing Gentiles are taken in their stead. 2. The root and fatness of this olive-tree, of which the ingrafted branches partake, are the religious privileges or grants, belonging to that covenant or church. Now 3. It was a very valuable and indisputable privilege of that covenant, that the faith of a parent grafted his children, together with himself into that olive-tree, i. e. admitted them into the church, or into a covenant-relation to GOD. Therefore 4. The unbelieving JEW being cut off from this root, and the believing GENTILE succeeding, and being grafted into his room, and partaking jointly with the natural branches of ALL their church-privileges, immunities, and grants, he must undoubtedly partake of THIS privilege too.

What

What part of this argument can possibly be denied? Will it be said—that the faith of a parent did not graft his CHILDREN, together with himself, into the visible church, before the coming of CHRIST? No—Or, that this was not a privilege? No—Can it be urged then, that believing GENTILES are not now taken in to be Συγκοινωνοὶ τῆς ρίζης JOINT-PARTAKERS of the root (r), i. e. of the church-privileges and grants which the unbelieving Jew hath lost? This were highly absurd: for they are expressly declared, by the apostle (s), to be Συγκληρονόμοι FELLOW-HEIRS; Συσσωμα of the SAME BODY; and Συμμετοχοὶ τῆς ἐπαγγελίας JOINT-PARTAKERS of the promise.

The argument, then, most clearly and strongly concludes for the visible admission of the Infants of believing GENTILES, together with themselves, into the covenant and church of GOD. Is he the GOD of the Jews only? Is he not also of the GENTILES? A GOD, in the same manner, in the same latitude and extent, to us, as he was to THEM? Yes; he is, undoubtedly, thus a GOD to believing GENTILES also. Accordingly Isaiab, speaking of the Christian dispensation, or the state of the church under the MESSIAH, says, that not only believers should be esteemed the seed of the blessed of the Lord, (or the blessed seed of the Lord) but also, THEIR OFFSPRING together with them (t).

II. From our Saviour's own words, Mark x. 14. Suffer the LITTLE CHILDREN to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of GOD. And John iii. 5. Except any one (Tis) is born of water and of the spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of GOD. From these two passages, I say, put together, gether, the right of Infants to Baptism may be also clearly inferred. For in one, they are declared actually to have a place in God's kingdom or church; and yet into this kingdom or church, the other, as expressly says, NONE can be admitted without being baptised.

(r) Rom. xi. 17. (s) Eph. iii. 6. (t) Isa. lxxv. 23.

The kingdom of God, in the gospel, denotes, either the visible church on earth; or the invisible one in heaven. Answerable to these, there is a two-fold regeneration, namely, a being born again of water (i. e. baptised, which is therefore called the washing of regeneration, Tit. iii. 5.) which admits into the visible church; and, a being born again of the spirit (called the renewing of the Holy Ghost;) which admits into the invisible. Now, in which soever of these senses the expression is here taken, it strongly concludes for the Baptism of INFANTS.
For

1. If, by the kingdom of God, be meant the visible church on earth; our LORD, by saying of such is the kingdom, declares that Infants are to be considered as having a place in this kingdom, i. e. as being members of that body, society, or church, which he, as MESSIAH, came to rule and to save. But, if they are to be considered as a part of this kingdom, or visible church, they are, then, to be baptised, or born again of water, for this is the only appointed rite of entering into it. Or

2. If, by the kingdom of God, we understand the invisible church in heaven; into that INFANTS cannot enter, except they are born again of the spirit, i. e. regenerated, quickened, and raised from the dead (u). But, if they are capable and proper sub-

(u) A resurrection from the dead is frequently spoken of in scripture as a being born again, or a regeneration. Vid. Rom. i. 4. Luke xx. 36. Mat. xix. 28. Acts xiii. 33. Rom. viii. 29. Col. i. 18. Heb. i.

subjects of a regeneration by the SPIRIT, they must be also of Baptism; for the baptismal water is nothing else but the appointed token or emblem of this regenerating spirit. Seeing then, that God grants them the thing signified, viz. the renewing of the Holy Ghost; it can never be thought his will, that the sign or token be denied them, viz. the washing of regeneration, or Baptism.

The argument, then, is conclusive, in whatever sense we take, the kingdom of God. For our LORD having, in one place, declared that the LITTLE CHILDREN should be brought to him, because of SUCH is the KINGDOM: and in another, that except any one is born of water, baptised, he cannot enter into this KINGDOM—it most evidently follows—that Infants are capable of being born again of water, or baptised; because, else, they could not enter into this kingdom, into which our LORD here expressly declares, they do enter, and are admitted (w).

It cannot be here said—that the words of SUCH—are to be understood, not of Infants in years, but of persons of a childlike and humble disposition. Because, this would represent our LORD's conduct as extremely absurd. For, why should he be very angry with his disciples, for forbidding Infants in years to be brought to him, because of grown per-

(w) The words, John iii. 5. thus interpreted, are a very pertinent and just rebuke of Nicodemus's cowardice. It is as though our Lord had said—“ Except you have the courage to “ profess openly my religion, signified by your submission to “ the ceremony of Baptism, you cannot be a member of my “ visible church on earth: and, notwithstanding your descent “ from Abraham, if you are not born of an higher principle, “ even of the spirit, or Holy Ghost; your mind will be never “ raised to that state of purity and moral rectitude, nor your “ body to that incorruptibility, spirituality and life, which is “ necessary to your admission into my invisible kingdom in “ heaven.”

sens of an humble disposition his kingdom consisted? There is no just connection betwixt his great displeasure at them for keeping Infants from him; and his giving, as the reason of it, that to quite different subjects, meek and humble persons, his kingdom belonged. According to this interpretation, our LORD might rationally have done the same, had lambs or doves been going to be presented to him; he might have been very angry with those who should have forbid them, and have said—suffer them to be brought, for OF SUCH, i. e. of persons of a meek and harmless temper, is the kingdom of GOD (x).

Finally: let it be added—that as our LORD took these INFANTS into his arms, laid his hands upon and blessed them; it hence appears—that Infants are CAPABLE of the divine influence, benediction, and the operations of the HOLY SPIRIT. Now what are these, but the very things principally intended to be represented by the baptismal water? Though our LORD did not pour water on them, putting up a prayer for them; he performed a religious ceremony on them equally solemn, and of much, (perhaps, exactly) the same purport; he laid his hands upon them, and prayed; which was an act of religious worship hardly at all differing from baptising them with water. Yea, it was a far greater thing for the favor of the world to take up Infants in his arms and solemnly to bless them, than for any minister now to baptise them with water in his name. Further

III. It is also very worthy to be observed—that the Christian dispensation, as well as the Jewish, makes

(x) Dr, Gale, therefore, ingenuously owns, that this passage is to be understood of Infants in years. Reflections, &c. pag. 421.

makes an evident distinction betwixt the children of believers and the children of Infidels.

Several of the Corinthian converts having unbelieving yoke-fellows, doubted of the lawfulness of cohabiting with them; and seemed to think themselves obliged to separate; lest the offspring of such unequal marriages should be deemed impure and unmeet to be taken into covenant with God. This their doubt seemed to be just, and to carry in it great weight; being grounded on the known conduct of Ezra, and the Jewish elders, in a parallel case. See Ezra x. 1, 2, 3. But the apostle resolves it, by telling them—that the unbelieving yoke-fellow was so far sanctified by (or to, or because of) the believing, as that their children which would otherwise be UNCLEAN, are now HOLY (y). Here then we see a most clear and evident distinction made betwixt the children of believers and the children of infidels: the one are UNCLEAN, i. e. do not stand in any visible covenant relation to JEHOVAH, and the other are holy, i. e. in the same sense holy, as the Jews were an holy nation, taken into a peculiar relation to God (z).

These several scriptures being impartially weighed, the propriety and fitness of bringing children to Baptism seems to be established beyond all rational doubt. As a conclusion of this argument I beg leave to ask—Must not the CHRISTIAN dispensation be allowed, in all things, to have the preference, and to be better than the JEWISH? But, if it EXCLUDES our Infants from the covenant of God, and

(y) 1 Cor. vii. 14.

(z) This sentiment, of an Infant's Holiness, on account of its solemn dedication to God, was perfectly scriptural and rational; as well as quite suitable to the custom and language of those times. As appears from Luke ii. 22, 23. where it is said, that, according to the standing usage, they brought the Infant JESUS to the Temple; to PRESENT HIM to the Lord: As it is written in the Law, Every first born male shall be HOLY to the Lord.

and from standing in any federal relation to heaven ; then here is one, and that a very important and considerable instance in which it is vastly inferior. Now, had this really been the case, how mighty and just a prejudice would it have raised in the Jews against CHRISTIANITY ! What complaints and objections should we, doubtless, have heard them making against this new dispensation, as casting their CHILDREN out of GOD'S COVENANT, and putting them upon a level with those of Infidels and Pagans ! But, as amongst their many and loud cavils at the religion of CHRIST, and the continued oppositions and reproaches of the Judcizers, we find not the least shadow of a complaint of this kind, it may with great assurance be concluded, there was no such occasion given ; but that CHRISTIANITY, as it found, so it continued and confirmed, the INFANTS of good men in the covenant of God.

Having proceeded thus far in the argument ; I beg leave here to recapitulate, and sum up the force of what has been offered, in the following queries ; which will soon lead a fair enquirer to an easie issue of the debate.

Query I. Are not Infants, in the eye or construction of the Christian law, under a sentence of condemnation, and treated as sinners ?

Query II. Are they not, consequently, in the eye of that law, capable of justification and of being treated as righteous ?

Query III. If, then, they are capable of justification and remission, is it not most highly reasonable and even necessary to suppose that the CHRISTIAN law, which is a manifestation of GOD'S richest mercy to mankind, has made provision for it, and given some token of it ?

Query

Query IV. Were not the Infants of believers taken into covenant with GOD; and did they not stand in a more immediate relation to him, than the Infants of unbelieving Canaanites, Moabites, &c. both under the Abrahamic and Mosaic dispensations?—And was not this a peculiar honour and advantage to these Infants?

Query V. Are not the Infants of us, Christians, as capable of this favour, viz. of being taken visibly into GOD's covenant, as their (the Israelites) Infants were: but if ours ARE NOT; is not, here an important circumstance in which both the Abrahamic and Mosaic dispensations were more favourable to mankind, and manifested GREATER GRACE than the dispensation of JESUS CHRIST?—But can this possibly be?

Query VI. Are not the Infants of CHRISTIANS (who are now an holy priesthood, and who succeed to all the privileges of the Jewish church) are not, I say, their Infants as capable τε μαθητευεσθαι of being discipled; as the Infants of the Jewish priesthood were, of being enrolled in the temple register, and entered as ministers to Aaron, and as φυλασσοιτες τας φυλακας των αγιων keeping the charge of the sanctuary (a): and are not Infants as capable, under the Christian covenant, of being baptised as they were of circumcision both under the Abrahamic and Mosaic?

Let the scriptures, then, interpret themselves; and one part of the divine dispensation be suffered to explain the other (of which other, it was intended to be a figure or type) and we shall find it perfectly agreeable, to the analogy and stile of scripture, as well as to the reason of things, that Infants should be admitted as members of the Christian church, and are therefore included in the commission to baptise.

A R G U M E N T V.

From APOSTOLIC TRADITION.

THE Baptism of Infants was the undoubted practice of the Christian church, in its purest and first ages; the ages immediately succeeding the Apostles; who could not but know what the APOSTOLIC doctrine and practice was as to this matter.

This, I apprehend, to be an argument of great weight. For the enquiry being about a FACT, which could not but be publicly and perfectly known, and not possible to be mistaken, in the ages immediately succeeding the Apostles; the sense of those ages, concerning this fact, must needs be of great moment in deciding the point. — Whether the APOSTLES and EVANGELISTS formed the first churches, throughout the whole world, upon the plan of INFANT-BAPTISM; or NOT; that is to say, whether they admitted Infants, together with their believing parents, into the church by Baptism; or did NOT so admit them, was a fact of such nature as could not but be evident, and indubitably known, to ALL the Christians of the first age. Nor was it, humanly speaking, possible that the APOSTOLIC practice in this point should be UNIVER-SALLY departed from, disused and thrown out, in so short a space of time, as we shall presently see the Baptism of INFANTS to have UNIVER-SALLY pre-vailed. To prepare the way to this proof, I beg leave to premise these two things.

1. To weaken the testimony of the antient writers and fathers upon this point, some have objected the many foolish and absurd opinions and interpretations of scripture with which their writings abound. But this is extremely weak. For they are not here appealed to as reasoners, or interpreters, but only as historians or witnesses to a public standing FACT.

2. If any think it strange, that we have no more express testimonies to this practice of the church, in the writings of these fathers, let him to consider.—That the far greater part of their writings are lost; and that it is but little more than their names and a few pieces of their works, especially as to the first age, that are transmitted down to us.—And also, that the Baptism of Infants being then universally practised, and no doubts or dispute having ever been moved about it; and it being likewise the constant ever-prevailing custom of all the enemies of Christianity, both Jews and Pagans, to admit Infants to a participation of their religious ceremonies and rites together with their parents. These things considered, it will not appear strange that this point is so rarely touched on in the writings of those times. There are a thousand religious books written in the present age, in which the least hint is not to be found about baptising of Infants, though the point has now been so long and so warmly controverted amongst us: much less, then, should one expect to find any thing but a few allusions and hints as to this matter, in the books of those early times.

This being premised, we proceed to the testimonies. The first shall be from

JUSTIN MARTYR, who wrote about forty years after the Apostolic age. He says “ και πολλοι τινες “ και πολλοι εξηκουσεται, η εβδουμικη τεται οι εκ παιδων “ εμαθητευθησαν τω χρισω.” — “ Several persons among F “ us,

“ us, both men and women, of sixty or seventy years “ old, who were profelyted, or made disciples, to “ CHRIST in, or from, their infancy do continue un-“ corrupt (a).” Now, profelyted to CHRIST from their infancy, they could not be, without being, from their infancy, considered and treated as pro- felytes to CHRIST; that is, without being from their infancy baptised.—For whosoever εμαθιντευθισθη τω χριστω were discipled or profelyted to CHRIST, were by his express order, Mat. xxviii. 19. to be baptised.
 Note seventy years from JUSTIN carries us back, almost, into the middle of the APOSTOLIC age.

IRENÆUS, who wrote about sixty seven years after the Apostles; and was born, it is said, some years before the death of St. John, says concerning CHRIST.—“ Omnes enim venit per semetipsum “ salvare; omnes inquam, qui per eum renascun“ tur in Deum, INFANTES & parvulos & pueros “ & juvenes (b).”—“ That he came to save all per- “ sons by himself; all, I mean, who by him are rege- “ nerated, i. e. baptised, unto GOD, INFANTS and “ little ones, and youths and elder persons.”—That the word renascor, regenerated, in the writings of these antients, particularly of Irenæus, is most familiarly used to signify, baptised, see from a vast variety of instances proved, beyond all doubt, in Dr. Wall's History of Infant Baptism. Vol. I. Chap. iii. § 2, 3. and Defence pag. 318, 324.—And that by IN-FANTS, are here meant, Children, before they come to the use of reason, is evident, not only as these must necessarily be included in the ALL whom he came to save; but also because, after he had mentioned Infants and others regenerated, he runs over the several ranks of age again; but with this remarkable difference, that whereas he mentions

the benefit of CHRIST'S example, as what was to be taken by each of the other ranks, viz. the parvuli, the juvenes and the seniores, he says no such thing concerning the Infantes Infants; for this reason, no doubt; viz. that these only, of all the mentioned ranks, were incapable of this benefit.

TERTULLIAN, who flourished about an hundred years after the Apostles, is the only person, among the antients, who advises to defer the Baptism of Infants, except in cases of necessity or in danger of death. But his advising to defer it, except in cases of necessity, is an incontestible proof that the baptising of Infants was the practise of those times. And as he appears to be quite singular in this his advice; so, that he was extremely whimsical and absurd in his opinions on this, as well as several other points of religion, all who have read his works perfectly well know. For, upon the same grounds on which he recommends the deferring the Baptism of Infants, he advises also—"That unmarried persons should be kept off from this sacrament, who are likely to come into temptation; as well those who never were married, as those in widowhood; until they either marry, or be confirmed in continence. They who understand the weight of Baptism will rather dread the receiving of it, than the delaying of it (c)."

This is TERTULLIAN'S reasoning upon the point; but we have nothing to do with that; all we cite him for is a voucher to an antient fact, to prove that in his days Infants were baptised. To this fact he bears incontestible witness. His saying—"Itaque pro cujusque personæ conditione, &c. Therefore according to every ones condition, disposition and also age, the delaying of Baptism is more profitable; especially in the case of children:" and his asking—" Quid festinat innocens ætas ad remissionem peccatorum? Quid enim necesse est, si non tam necesse sponsores etiam periculo ingeri."—" Why does that innocent age make such haste to the remission of sins, i. e. to the laver of Baptism? What occasion is there, except in cases of necessity, that the sponsors or godfathers, be brought into danger (d)?" These questions plainly prove the baptising of Infants to have been the practice of his days.

Note. There are some, who upon very probable grounds, understand these passages of Tertullian as relating only to the Baptism of the Infants of HEATHEN parents; which when they came into their power by purchase, conquest, &c. the Christians of those times were wont to baptise. And that it is only to delay the baptising of such Infants as these, which Tertullian advises, there is strong reason to believe.

Hitherto, we find this point, of Infant Baptism, but transiently touched on by these early writers: there having yet no controversie or doubt arisen in the church which might give occasion to their speaking more expressly concerning it. But about this time, there arose some dispute about ORIGINAL SIN, or the nature and degree of that pollution with which new-born Infants are tainted. Henceforward, therefore, we shall find more direct and express passages relating to their Baptism.

ORIGEN, about an hundred and ten years after the Apostles, speaking of the pollution which cleaves to Infants, says,—“ Adde his etiam.—Be- sides this also let it be considered; what is the reason, that whereas the Baptism of the church is given for the forgiveness, INFANTS also by the usage of the church are BAPTISED: when if there were nothing

(d) Ibid.

“ nothing in INFANTS which wanted forgiveness and “ mercy, the grace of BAPTISM would be needless to “ them (e).”

And again, “ Parvuli baptizantur in remissio“ nem.”—“ INFANTS ARE BAPTISED for the “ remission of sins. Of what Sins? Or when have they “ sinned? Or how can any reason of the laver hold “ good in their case; but according to that sense before “ mentioned; none is free from pollution, though “ his life be but the length of one day upon the “ earth? And it is for that reason, because, by the “ sacrament of Baptism the pollution of our birth is ta“ ken away, that INFANTS ARE BAPTISED (f).”

In another treatise he saith—“ Pro hoc & eccle“ sia.”—“ For this also it was, that the church had “ from the Apostles a tradition, or order, TO GIVE “ BAPTISM also to INFANTS. For they to whom
 “ the divine mysteries were committed, knew that there “ is in all persons the natural pollution of Sin, which “ must be done away by water and the spirit (g).”

There are other passages of Origen, full to this point: but these, already cited, abundantly prove the Baptism of Infants to be the standing custom of his days. That they are genuine and authentic, see clearly shewn in Dr. Wall’s History of Infant Baptism, Vol. I. pag. 55.—and defence, pag. 372.

Note. ORIGEN was born, about eighty five years after the age of the Apostles; and if baptised in Infancy (as there is no reason to question but he was, his father and grand father having both been Christians) here is clear proof of its practice very near the Apostolic age. Though he resided chiefly at Alexandria in Egypt, he had been conversant in almost all the noted churches of the world. His testimony,

ny, therefore, to the point may justly be supposed to speak the sense of them all (h).

We next proceed to CYPRIAN, who wrote about an hundred and fifty years after the Apostles; and gives, if it be possible, a yet more and indubitable testimony to this fact. In his time (Anno Domini 253) a council of sixty-six bishops being convened at Carthage; one Fidus, a country bishop, having entertained some doubt (not whether Infants should be baptised at all, but) whether Baptism might lawfully be given them, till they were eight days old, according to the law of circumcision? In answer to this doubt, they unanimously decreed—“ That the baptism of Infants was not to be deferred till
 “ the eighth day.”—And after many things spoken to the point they conclude thus—“ Cæterum si “ homines impedire aliquid. But if any thing could “ binder men from Baptism, it will be heinous sins,
 “ which will debar the adult and mature therefrom.
 “ And if those who have sinned extremely, yet if after- “ ward they believe, are baptised, and no man is pro- “ hibited from this grace; how much more ought not “ AN INFANT to be prohibited; who, being BUT “ JUST BORN, is guilty of no sin, but of original
 “ which he contracted from ADAM.—Wherefore, “ dearly beloved, it is our opinion that from Baptism
 “ and the grace of God, who is kind and benign to all, “ none ought to be prohibited by us; which as it is to “ be observed with respect to ALL, so especially with “ respect to INFANTS, and those who are BUT JUST

(h) The learned Dr. Gale, who with great acuteness had disputed the preceding authorities (but whose objections have been abundantly answered by Dr. Wall) does not so much as pretend to contest those which follow, from Cyprian and Austin. These, therefore, being admitted as incontestible by our opponents; we shall see presently, the strength with which they conclude in our favour.

“ JUST BORN, who deserve our help and the divine mercy (i).”

Hence, then, it incontestibly appears, that the Baptism of Infants was the constant, established practice of the church at this time: inasmuch, as neither the person who proposed the doubt, nor any one of the sixty-six bishops who answer it, made the least question of the Baptism of Infants, but speak of it as a thing universally acknowledged and practised in the church.

Now, as this was but an hundred and fifty years after the Apostles; and some of these bishops may reasonably be supposed seventy or eighty years old; if they were baptised in their infancy (which can with no reason be doubted) it carries up the practice to within eighty years of the Apostles themselves. And at the time of their infancy, there were many alive who were born within the very age of the Apostles, and could not but certainly and infal- libly know what the APOSTOLIC practice and ap- pointment was to this matter.

The CLEMENTINE CONSTITUTIONS (a book thought by some to be of very great antiquity; and by all acknowledged to be extant in the fourth or fifth century, and so contain a good account of the antient discipline and practice) have this express admonition “ Βαπτιστε δε υμων η̄ τα νηπια.”——
“ And BAPTISE YOUR INFANTS, and bring them up in the nurture and admonition of GOD:” for he says, “ Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not.”

There are several other testimonies, from Cle- mens Alexandrinus; quest. & respon. apud Just. Martyr; Greg. Nazian; Basil; Ambrose; Chrysoptom; and Jerom, most full to this purpose, to be seen in Dr.

(i) Cyprian Epist. ad Fidum. Epist. 64.

Dr. Wall's History of Infant Baptism, too long to be here inserted; I shall further insist, only, upon a very remarkable and decisive one, from the writings of AUSTIN and PELAGIUS; about three hundred and ten years after the Apostles. I bring it not to prove Baptism of INFANTS to have been the undoubted, universal practice of the church in their days; (this would be quite needless, after the much earlier, and the indisputable evidence already produced from the council at Carthage, &c.) but, to shew it to have been the constant and immemorial practice from the very beginning of Christianity.

In his controversy with PELAGIUS, about original sin; to prove Infants to be tainted with it, AUSTIN frequently and with great triumph urges their BAPTISM; demanding — “Why Infants are baptised for the remission of sin, if they have none?” PELAGIUS seems exceedingly embarrassed by this argument (k); and every one sees, how much it concerned

(k) It is surprising, to see the shifts by which Pelagius, Celestius, and their followers, endeavour to evade the force of this argument. Sometimes they acknowledged Infants to have actual sin, and that their peevishness and froward temper is to be considered as such.—Sometimes, they urged, that Infants had pre existed; and it was for sins done in some former state, that they were brought to the baptismal laver.—Sometimes, they said, that they were not baptised for the forgiveness of sin; but that they may be made heirs of the kingdom.—Sometimes, that they were baptised for forgiveness; not that they had any sin, but that the uniformity of the words might be kept: or, because they were baptised into the church, where forgiveness was to be had; and with a sacrament, which had the means of forgiveness for those who wanted it. Vid. Wall's history, Vol. I. pag. 280.

To such extreme difficulties they thought themselves reduced, to reconcile their opinion with the Baptism of Infants. But, these had been all instantly removed, and the battery which so annoyed them been demolished at once, by only denying that Infants were to be baptised. Yet, so far are they from this, concerned him to DENY the Baptism of Infants, had there been any possible ground for it; and to do all that in him lay, to invalidate and disprove it. Had it been an innovation, a departure from the APOSTOLIC practice; it is impossible but so very learned and acute a person as Pelagius, who lived so near the Apostles, and had been personally conversant in some of the most noted churches of Europe, Asia, and Africa, must have been able to discover it, and both to have and to give at least some strong suspicion of it. But does the very sagacious Pelagius attempt any thing like this? No: so far from it, that some of his adversaries having drawn as a consequence of his opinion, that Infants are not to be baptised.—He warmly disclaims it, and with indignation complains.—“ Se ab hominibus infamari quod “ neget parvulis Baptismi sacramentum. That he “ had been slanderously represented by men, as denying

 “ the sacrament of Baptism to Infants.” And adds
 “ Nunquam se, vel impium aliquem hæreticum, “ audisse qui hoc quod proposuit de parvulis di-

that they seem not to have raised the least doubt of this kind. Pelagius owns, as above cited. And Celestius confesses, that Infants are to be baptised according to the rule of the UNIVERSAL church.

Note. Pelagius and Celestius were born, one in Britain, the other in Ireland; they lived a long time in Rome, the then center of the world, and reputed head of the church: they were both, for some time, at Carthage, in Africa; then, the one settled at Jerusalem; the other travelled through all the noted Greek and Eastern churches, in Europe and Asia. If there had, then, been any church, or number of churches, throughout the whole world, not only in that, but in the two preceeding ages, who denied the Baptism of Infants; it is impossible, but these two very learned and sagacious persons must have known, or heard of it: and that they would not have failed to take mighty advantage from it, to check the triumphs of their opponents; and to wrest from them this argument, by which, of all others, they were most grievously pressed.

“ceret.”—“That he never heard, no not even any impious Heretic, who would say that which he had mentioned, viz. that unbaptised Infants are not liable to the condemnation of the first man, and that they are not to be cleansed by the regeneration of Baptism.” And then proceeds—“Quis enim ita evangelicæ lectionis ignarus est, &c. For who is so ignorant of that which is read in the gospel as I do not say boldly to affirm, but even lightly to suggest, or even to imagine such a thing? In a word, who can be so impious, as to hinder INFANTS from being BAPTISED and born again in CHRIST; and so make them miss of the kingdom of GOD?”

And having cited these words of our Saviour John iii. 5. no one can enter into the kingdom of GOD, except he is born again of water and of the spirit, he goes on—“Quis ille tam impius est qui cujusbet ætatis parvulo.”—“Who is there so impious as to refuse to an INFANT, of what age soever, the common redemption of mankind (l).” AUSTIN also, reciting the above-mentioned decision of the council at Carthage, which determines that Infants are in no wise to be denied Baptism, adds,—“Non solum in catholicâ ecclesiâ, verum etiam in qualibet heresi vel schismate constitutis, non memini me aliud legisse.”—“That neither from such as were of the catholic church, nor of such as belonged to any sect or schism, whatsoever, he remembered not to have read otherwise in any writer (m).” i. e. of any who denied, that Infants were baptised upon the account of original sin. “This the church has ALWAYS had, has ALWAYS held (n).”

THESE, now, are the evidence, on which we rest the ANTIQUITY of this fact; and by which we prove prove the Baptism of Infants to have been the practice of the Christian church, from the very beginning. Justin Martyr about forty years; Irenæus about sixty-seven; and Tertullian about an hundred years after the APOSTLES, give plain intimations of its being the Christian practice in their times. From Origen an hundred and ten years; and from Cyprian and the synod of sixty-six bishops, one hundred and fifty years from the above date, we have indisputable proof of its being then the established and standing usage of the church. And Austin and Pelagius, about three hundred and ten years after the Apostles (though the latter was under the strongest temptation, and even necessity to deny the Baptism of Infants, had there been any possible ground for it) acknowledge, that they never heard, nor read of any, whether true Christian, Heretic, or Schismatic, who denied Baptism to Infants. This is the evidence: let us now argue from it.

1. ALL the churches, throughout the whole Christian world, were in the age of the Apostles, formed and established upon ONE and the SAME plan. That is to say, they ALL either baptised Infants; or else they ALL rejected them from Baptism. What the opinion, and the practice, of the Apostles was in this matter, (who were sent out into all the world to preach and establish churches) must be perfectly, universally, infallibly known; nor could it possibly be mistaken, by any one single church throughout the whole earth, during the Apostolic age. The Corinthians, for instance, the Galatians, the Thessalonians, &c. all perfectly knew, whether Paul and his companions, when they baptised and formed them into a church, baptised their INFANTS also; or else rejected them from Baptism. And ignorant or mistaken as to this fact. They could not be in the least doubt, how their fathers had received and learnt from the Apostles, and practised as to this matter. For whether Infants were, or were not, then baptised; was so notorious and plain a fact, a fact of so public and conspicuous a nature, as could not possibly escape the knowledge of EVERY PARTICULAR CHRISTIAN, then living upon earth (o).

2. As to the age, immediately following the Apostles; it is impossible that THEY could be ig-

Now if ALL the churches throughout the world, were really established by the Apostles upon the plan of only ADULT Baptism; and they every where rejected INFANTS, and forbid them to be baptised; it will appear a thing absolutely inconceivable, and even a moral IMPOSSIBILITY, that the Baptism of Infants should so early, so widely, so universally prevail, throughout the whole world, as we have now seen it to have done.

For if the Baptism of Infants was not an APOSTOLIC institution and practice, how must the persons, who first attempted to introduce it, be received? Would not all their neighbour Christians immediately cry out upon the innovation, and demand,—“ By what authority do you presume to perform this quite NEW; this unheard of and “ strange ceremony of baptising an Infant!”—— Suppose them to have urged, in support of their practice, the same scriptures with us; would it not have

(o) With whatever credulity as to MIRACLES, said to be wrought in their days, these early writers may be charged; it cannot at all affect their evidence as to the fact, here, in debate. For, as there was no possibility of their being themselves deceived as to this matter; so neither could they be under temptation to falsify in their accounts of it. Nor indeed, had the temptation been ever so strong, could they have ventured to falsify in a fact notorious to all the world; and when every Christian then living could have stepped forth, and born witness to the falsehood of their account.

have presently been replied upon them with unanswerable strength?—"But did not the Apostles and first preachers of christianity understand the true sense and force of these scriptures? Yet not one of them all, nor any one of their followers, ever baptised an Infant, as we all perfectly know, and as you cannot but own. Look into all the churches throughout the whole earth, into Syria, Palestine, Egypt, Greece, Italy, Africk, Spain, &c. and you will find there never was such a thing known, nor heard of amongst Christians, as baptising an Infant."

WHAT! I greatly wonder, could the first baptisers of Infants possibly reply? Could they urge that it was an apostolic injunction and practice? No: the whole Christian world would have rose up against them, and born witness to the falshood of such a pretence. Could they hope then to establish this invention of their own; yea, was it actually established, in direct opposition to the APOSTLES authority, and to their then perfectly well-known institution and practice?—Impossible to imagine!

What then! I ask again, could the first baptisers of Infants urge in favour of their practice? Or how was it possible, it should be received, yea prevail, yea so universally prevail, that the very learned and acute Pelagius about three hundred years after, never heard of a church amongst either Catholics or Heretics, who did not baptise Infants, if ALL the churches in the world were constituted by the Apostles upon the directly opposite plan? Yea, and when the persons who first began this practice could not but own, that the authority and example of ALL the Apostles, and of ALL the primitive Christians, and of ALL the churches in the world were absolutely against them?

Well; but suppose a few persons were of so odd a turn of mind, as to run into this quite novel and unheard unheard of practice, of baptising INFANTS; can it be imagined that whole churches would be led blindly away after them? Or, if whole churches might be thus seduced; could whole nations be so too? Yea, if whole nations might; can it enter into the heart of any reasonable man, that ALL THE NATIONS of the Christian world, both the eastern and the western churches, in the space of about two hundred years, universally fell in with this anti-apostolic and new-invented rite of worship: and so strangely apostatized from the primitive and pure doctrine of CHRIST as to this matter! It were the height of absurdity even to surmise such a thing.

The extravagance of the supposition is moreover, mightily increased, by remembering—that a vast number of sects and heresies sprung up, and the Christian church was rent into many angry and contending parties, during these times (p). In the second century, or the age immediately following the apostles, there were those who took their names from Cerintbus, Ebion, Valentinus, Carpocrates, Marcion, Montanus; and the whole church was rent into two furious and angry sects, the eastern and the western, by the controversy about easter. In the third century there arose Novatian, Sabellius, Paulus Samosatensis, Manes, &c. with their followers. In the fourth, the Meletians, Arians, Albanasians, &c. Now these several inflamed parties, into which by divine permission, the church was then divided, were watchful and severe spies upon each others conduct: so that if any of them had innovated in this matter, of baptising Infants, how readily would the rest have entered their protest against it, and exclaimed loudly upon the innovation? But, it seems, so far were they from this; that however mutually ininflamed and angry as to other points; yet, laying aside their animosity, they all surprisngly agree, in the affair of baptising Infants, to depart from the apostolic practice; and by an unaccountable confederacy connive at one another in this dangerous superstition.—Strange! beyond all belief! That amidst their many mutual accusations, reproaches, complaints, we meet not, in all antiquity, with one upon this head; and not a man, Catholic nor Heretic, dropping a single word against this gross innovation; except, perhaps, Tertullian; and he not absolutely, (if at all) censuring it; and supporting his dislike of it, by reasons which are no strength, but a dishonour to any cause.

For an hundred years after the death of the APOSTLES, their authority was sufficient, our brethren acknowledge, to keep such an innovation from entering the church. They therefore usually place the introduction of this practice about the beginning of the third century. But behold! in the short space of about two hundred years more; without a single precept to warrant, or a single example to encourage it, yea with the well-known practice of the APOSTLES themselves, and of ALL the churches they ever planted throughout the whole world, confessedly, openly, directly against it; under all these disadvantages, the Baptism of Infants, it seems, so EVERY WHERE prevailed, that upon the face of the whole earth there was not a church found where it was not performed!—To him that believes this, what can be incredible!

Some, perhaps, to evade the force of the foregoing argument, may object—“ There have been “ other great corruptions, such as image-worship, “ transubstantiation, &c. which have alike universally “ prevailed in the church.” But the answer is extremely obvious. 1. This is far from being true;
 nay

may it is entirely without foundation. Neither image-worship, nor transubstantiation, ever universally prevailed. The latter has by the greater part of the Christian church been in all times rejected as it is at this day: and though the former, since the seventh century, has spread itself wide, and too generally prevailed; yet it was not without mighty struggles and oppositions in the church: numerous synods of bishops zealously declared against it: solemn decrees of councils, not in one kingdom or church only, but in diverse regions of the earth, publicly condemned it: the arm both of civil and military power was strenuously exerted to establish and support it: grievous persecutions were raised upon its account: and many testified their abhorrence of it by bitter sufferings, and death itself.— And is this a case at all parallel to that of Infant-Baptism, which we have now been considering? The most prejudiced judgment must confess it is not. Besides

2. Had these corruptions, indeed, as universally prevailed, as Infant-Baptism ever did; yet would this, by no means, have put them upon an equal foot with that; or have made the cases at all parallel. For, when the Bishop of Rome had claimed and was acknowledged to be the infallible head, the supreme pastor of the church, the vicar of CHRIST, &c. when emperors and kings took upon them to convene councils, to explain doctrines, and establish faith by dint of civil authority; cherishing and upholding one party by worldly honours and preferments; but terrifying and crushing others by banishment, confiscations, imprisonment and death: finally; when the clergy had both the terrors and the riches of this world, much at their disposal; and the spirit of true piety, fortitude, and faith began to languish in the church (as it miserably languished, in the times when image-worship and transubstantiation were brought brought in) and a spirit of pride and domination, of sensuality and sloth sprung up in its room.—When this, I say, was the case, such an universal departure from the Apostles doctrine and practice may seem easily to be accounted for, and has nothing in it so strange. But—when the circumstances of the church were the very reverse of all this; harrassed and severely pressed by persecutions from without; split into various sects and angry parties within; destitute of worldly honours to recommend, and of worldly terrors to enforce, any doctrine or practice; and acknowledging no visible, supreme, infallible head, as having dominion over its faith; when this was the case (as in the three first centuries, when Infant-Baptism has been shewn universally to prevail, it manifestly was) every one sees the wide the vast difference; and must confess the impossibility of so universally corrupting the APOSTOLIC doctrine and practice of baptising ONLY the ADULT, if any such there had been; and of foisting in, throughout the whole world, Infant-Baptism in its stead.

So that, upon the whole, it appears a clear and a very strongly attested fact.—That the practice, of baptising of INFANTS was primitive and apostolic; and that the first Christian churches were every where formed and established upon this scheme.

But the EXAMPLES of Scripture Baptism, our brethren are wont to urge, are all on their side.—This is confidently, indeed, asserted; but upon a closer examination will be found a manifest mistake. There being not, in the whole scripture, ONE single instance of the Baptism for which they plead, and which is practised amongst them, viz. that those who are born of Christian parents, are to be suffered to become adult before they are baptised.—This, it is to be observed carefully, is the point in question betwixt us. As for the case of adult profelytes, or converts to christianity, these, we all agree, are not to be baptised 'till they personally profess faith. The scripture instances therefore of such proselytes, baptised upon such profession, are of no pertinence nor weight at all in the controverſie before us: for these are exactly conſonant to our ſentiments and practice. The only point in debate is—what is to be done with the INFANTS of theſe proſelytes?—Are they to be baptised with their parents?—Or; are they to be let alone 'till they become adult, and then be baptised upon their personal profeſſion? This latter, our brethren ſay; but have not in the whole ſcripture, I again affirm it, one inſtance of ſuch practice; no, nor any ſhadow or appearance of it. Their boasts, therefore, of ſcripture inſtances, precedents, examples, are meer ſound, and nothing elſe. Whereas the inſtance of Lydia, Acts xvi. 14, 15. (not to mention Stephanas and the jaylor) ſtrongly favours our practice; whoſe faith alone is mentioned, and, immediately it is added, her houſehold were baptiſed.

The RELIGIOUS or MORAL purposes of Infant-Baptiſm.

IF it be asked—what are the moral purposes of this Baptiſm of Infants? or, of what real benefit or uſe in religion? It were ſufficient to reply—of the ſame benefit and uſe as Infant-circumciſion was; which is acknowledged to have been injoined by God, and practiſed by his church, for more than two thouſand years.—But I add; it is of great moral benefit; as it is both a ſolemn vow or dedication on our part, and a gracious condeſcenſion and promiſe on God's.

FIRST. It is a ſolemn vow or dedication on our part. For, herein, the religious parent publickly recoo-

recognises his own covenant with GOD: binds himself by a sacred promise to watch over the immortal soul, now committed to his charge, and to train it up in a religious manner; and devotes first himself, and then his helpless Infant, to the divine patronage and care. By being baptised into the NAME, the child is solemnly given up to the dominion and favour, and is received as the peculiar property, the subject and charge, of the FATHER, and of the SON, and of the HOLY GHOST (q). And to one who well considers, into what a world of various difficulties, temptations and sins, his Infants are born; how every age and path of life is beset with dangers and snares; and what consequences, of awful moment, depend upon the manner in which they pass the present state—to him that considers this, it cannot but appear an inestimable privilege to be permitted to give them up, in this solemn manner, to the gracious protection and conduct of heaven.

The sentiments of a religious parent, on such an occasion, may be thus expressed.—“ I acknowledge, Almighty God, with the greatest thankfulness and joy, thine absolute right in me, and in all that is mine. This child, which thou hast given me, I receive as from thine hand. It is thine, for thou hast formed it, and redeemed it by the blood of thine only begotten son. To THEE therefore I now solemnly devote and give it up: to be guarded by thy providence; ministered to by thine angels; influenced by thy SPIRIT; conducted safe through the many dangers and “ evils

(q) Baptising in (or into) the name—signifies, commending a person to the peculiar  blessing and patronage of him, or them, in whose name he is baptised. Thus, when the form of solemn benediction is prescribed, Numb. vi. 23.—The LORD bless thee, and keep thee, &c. It is added—And they shall PUT MY NAME upon the children of Israel, and I will bless them.

“ evils of this present world, and to be preserved “ to thine everlasting kingdom and glory in the “ other.

“ For ever blessed be thy name, that as by one “ man's offence, JUDGMENT came upon all to con“ demnation and death; even so by the righteousness
 “ of one, the FREE GIFT comes upon all to justifica“ tion of life. That as the fatal effects of the first “ ADAM's sin extend to our Infant-offspring, subject“ ing them to pain, to misery, and death; so, the “ salutary effects of the second ADAM's righteous“ ness extend also to these, raising them to glory,
 “ to happiness and life.—

“ I render unfeigned thanks, that the blessings “ of redemption and of the covenant of grace, reach
 “ also to them. That thou hast COMMANDED that “ little children be brought into thy presence, to receive “ thy solemn benediction, and hast declared them
 “ to belong to thy family and kingdom. That the bap- “ tismal water is appointed as a standing monument
 “ of thy favour and gracious acceptance of them?
 “ and that by this figure is represented, thy readi“ ness to pour down thy spirit upon our seed, and thy “ blessing upon our offspring (r).—LORD I believe!
 “ I most thankfully accept this liberty which is “ given me. I here bring my helpless Infant, “ commending it to GOD, and the power of his “ grace. Oh take it into thy family, and into the “ arms of thy love! Pour down thy blessings on “ it; and write its name in the book of life! May “ it be sanctified from the womb: consecrated a chosen “ vessel, fitted for thy service! May thy SPIRIT “ descend upon, and dwell continually in it, as a “ new principle of life; gradually rectifying the “ disorders of its nature; rooting out the seeds of “ vanity and folly which may spring up in its heart;
 “ enlight-

“ enlightening its understanding, strengthening its “ moral powers, purifying and controuling its ap“ petites and passions; and forming it into a living “ temple and habitation of GOD!

“ Guard and preserve the life, which thou hast “ thus graciously bestowed! Conduct it through “ the dangers of childhood and youth! Spare it,
“ if it be thy will, to be a blessing to its friends;
“ and a burning and shining light, amidst a dark
“ and corrupt world! As it grows in years, may “ it continually grow in grace, in wisdom, and in “ virtue, and in favour with GOD and men! Grant “ me, ever to walk before it with a wise and per“ fect heart: to bring it up in the fear and in the “ nurture of the Lord: and so faithfully to dis“ charge my duty, in every respect towards it, that “ I may at last meet it with joy at thy kingdom
“ and appearance, and with triumph then say—“ behold me, and the child which thou hast given me!”

And as it is thus a solemn vow and dedication on our part: so it is

SECONDLY. A most gracious condescension and promise on GOD's. It is a token of his covenant; a memorial or sign that he graciously accepts both the religious parent and his child, and that HE WILL be their GOD. By this rite he assures us, that as, in the wisdom of his providence, he treats Infants as sinners, through the transgression of Adam; so, in the riches of his grace, he had opened a fountain for their cleansing: will treat them as righteous through the obedience of CHRIST: and will give them his SPIRIT to quicken, regenerate and raise them to life. Of this SPIRIT the baptismal water is the appointed emblem or sign; and by commanding it to be poured on them he virtually saith—

“ Suffer the LITTLE CHILDREN to come unto me, “ and forbid them not: for THESE also I account as “ sub-

“ subjects of my moral kingdom, and as a part of “ that church, or chosen society, over whom I will “ exercise a peculiar providence and care.

“ And the child, which the pious parent has thus “ devoted to me, I deliver back to him again :
 “ with a solemn charge that he ever, henceforth, “ consider it as my property. Train it up as for my “ service. Teach it early the principles of Christian “ knowledge and virtue. Pray daily with, and for “ it. Set before it a good example : and watch “ over it as one who must shortly give account, to “ the great shepherd when he shall appear. So only, “ mayest thou hope that it will be thy comfort and “ delight in this world ; and thy joy, and everlast“ ing crown of rejoicing, in the other.”

These are some of the pious sentiments, which the Baptism of an Infant naturally suggests. Considered in this light, it appears to be of great moral benefit: a most rational and proper service, or act of religion. It manifestly tends to enlarge and to confirm a Christian's faith and hope in God, with regard to his helpless child—to give a clearer and more extensive view of the great scheme of redemption—to render parents more faithful, more diligent, and serious in the education of their children ; if their lives are continued : and if they are taken from them, it affords the noblest support and consolation in their death.

I here beg leave to add—that there is a vast difference in the genius and temper of children, even in their most early years, every one sees. What influence the DIVINE SPIRIT has in forming the human mind, even in its Infant State ; and moulding it into a preparation for future usefulness and virtue—We cannot certainly say. Probably very great : for John, it is said, Luke i. 15. was filled with the HOLY GHOST from his mother's womb. The prophet phet Iſaiab, was called and formed from the womb, to be a peculiar meſſenger of heaven to inſtruct and reclaim the people. Iſa. xlix. 1, 2, 5. And of Jeremy it is ſaid, before I formed thee in the belly I knew thee: and before thou cameſt forth out of the womb, I ſanctified thee, and ordained thee a prophet unto the nations. Jer. i. 5.

It is then, a rational act of worſhip; for parents, from the very dawn and firſt beginnings of life, to devote their children to GOD, and to the peculiar influences of his ſpirit. And it is a very merciful and wiſe appointment, ſurely, if GOD has inſtituted any rite, or ſacrament of religion, in which believing parents are commanded thus to dedicate their Infants to him; and in which he gives them a ſolemn token that he will pour his ſpirit and bleſſing on them. This is done in Baptiſm. The water poured on them, being an apt and proper emblem of his readineſs to hear the prayers of the pious parent, and to give his ſpirit to the child—to preſide over, and aſſiſt, it's intellectual and moral powers—to form it to a love of virtue—and to fit and pre-diſpoſe it for uſefulneſs in future life (s).

Upon the whole then we conclude—that it being an undoubted PRIVILEGE of the Chriſtian diſpenſation, as it was of both the Abrahamic and Mosaic of old, that the Infants of believers (t) ſhould be

(s) Mr. Tombs, the learned Antipedobaptiſt, acknowledges that the grace of GOD may put Infants into Chriſt, and unite them to him by his ſpirit. Vid. Examen. §. 10. Suppose, ſays one, there were a Maſter, who had the ſecret of pre-diſpoſing the brain in order to future learning, or of giving a principle or power of future knowledge; would it not be a very reaſonable and deſireable thing to put Infants under his management; and might they not thenceforward be counted ſcholars, or disciples, to him, though not yet actually taught?

(t) By Infants of Believers, are not to be underſtood only their natural offspring; but any Infants which are their property, be taken, together with themselves, into covenant with GOD : it becomes us, with great thankfulness, to accept of this favour ; to dedicate our children, as well as ourselves, in this solemn manner to him : and thus publickly to declare—that WE, and OUR HOUSEHOLD, will serve the LORD.

ty, or members of their household, or for whose religious education they will solemnly undertake. Thus, not only Abraham's own children, but all born in his house, or bought with his money, he was commanded to circumcise. Gen. xvii. 13. So when Lydia, the jaylor, and Stephanas were baptised, it is particularly observed, that their households were baptised with them. Foundling Infants, therefore, are very rationally brought to Baptism, by those who will engage solemnly for their Christian education.

Additional Notes to the Baptism of Infants, &c.

INTRODUC. lin. 16. from the end—Add, The light of nature itself seems plainly to have taught this. It was the custom of the Romans, on the ninth day from the child's birth (which was called the lustrical, or the day of purification) for its friends and relations to bring it to the temple, and before the altars of the gods; to recommend it to the protection of some tutelar deity. Middleton's Life of Cicero. Vol. I. pag. 6. A ceremony of the same nature also was performed amongst the Greeks.

Under Argument IV. pag. 29. read the note (z) at the bottom, thus, This sentiment of an Infant's HOLINESS, and of the propriety and duty of its being brought into the Church of GOD, and there solemnly devoted to him, was quite scriptural and rational; as well as perfectly agreeable to the appointed customs and forms, and language of those times. For, Luke ii. 22, 23. 'tis said—They brought the Infant JESUS to the Temple, to PRESENT HIM TO THE LORD: As it is written in the law; Every first born male shall be HOLY to the Lord. Hence it plainly follows. 1. That Infants are capable of Holiness: and that some were accounted holy (i. e. taken into a more peculiar relation to GOD) wh.<sup>o</sup> others were not. And 2. That our LORD himself, when an Infant, passed under a sacred ceremony, of the same nature with our Infants when we bring bring them to be baptised. The Infant JESUS, like curs, was brought to the place of worship, there solemnly to be presented, or devoted, to the LORD.

Pag. 41. lin. 3. from the end. To—Denying the Sacrament of Baptism to Infants, add, and promising the kingdom of Heaven to any without the redemption of Christ.

Pag. 42. lin. 1. Margin. For de Nat. & Gratiâ, Leg. de Pec. Merit.

At the bottom of pag. 46. Subjoin this note. Iræneus, Epiphanius, Philastrius, Austin, and Theodoret, it has been justly observed, each of them wrote Catalogues of the several Se&ts and Sorts of Christians they had ever heard of; but none of them mention any that denied Infant Baptism, except those who denied all Baptism.
